

Indigo Personality

Your keywords: intuition, teaching, fairness, sensitivity and structure

What you are learning: Self-responsibility

You are a wise and spiritual indigo and you have acquired a deep inner knowledge and understanding of the world around you. You keep this well hidden and do not openly show your true nature to others.

You are a marvellous unpaid counsellor, you can listen and at times you will receive profound insights that flow through your psyche. These may scare you but it is really your true nature to receive the gift of the highly tuned intuition that you were born with.

Indigo is the colour of midnight, all things that are hidden can be seen, especially by you but with the dark comes fear. Don't let this feeling overwhelm you as you like structure in your life and benefit from events that unfold gently and calmly.

You make an excellent teacher, senior manager or healer. Your air of authority in situations that require calm and structured solutions is excellent. You like fairness and justice and will definitely take the side of the underdog supporting them through lengthy and challenging adversity.

You need your space and you also like to follow guidelines giving a more disciplined approach to your lifestyle.

Underneath, what can appear as a cool or even hard exterior, you are extremely sensitive, kind and compassionate. You need to show a little of this to the world around you as there are many people standing in the wings waiting to support you and are only too glad to help.

Depression and feeling 'blue' can manifest itself for you when there is too much analysing and fear sneaks in. Surround yourself with your complimentary colour of Orange to help you to 'let go' of all that you don't need.

'Use your depth of understanding to seek justice Indigo'.

For further details on your personality colour and how to calculate your 'journey' colours please visit us as www.thecolourministry.co.uk.

